

Australian Government

Registered Organisations Commission

Episode 18: Working together to assist registered organisations

Registered organisations often engage with multiple regulators at one time. For example, most organisations require the assistance of the ROC and the Australian Electoral Commission (AEC) to fill their office positions through elections. If your organisation is considering a rule change, listen to the podcast to discover how the Fair Work Commission (FWC) and the ROC can provide advice and assistance to you throughout the process.

In our latest episode of ROCpod: Talking with the Registered Organisations Commission we focus on the ROC's relationships with the FWC, the AEC and the Fair Work Ombudsman. The podcast will help you understand the related functions of each agency, and how to obtain support when undertaking compliance work.

Episode highlights

- 4:00 Changing your rules with the Fair Work Commission
- 4:29 Engaging with the ROC before a rule alteration
- 13:19 Elections – who does what?
- 18:55 Sharing information with the Australian Electoral Commission
- 22:11 Our corporate relationship with the Fair Work Ombudsman
- 23:07 Partnerships for the whistleblower regime

Episode 18 transcript \(PDF 172.4KB\)

Listen to our other ROCpod episodes

Disclaimer

ROCpod is the official podcast of the Registered Organisations Commission. It is copyright to the Commonwealth of Australia. The opinions expressed in ROCpod are the opinions of the particular speaker and not necessarily the opinions of the Registered Organisations Commission. This information is general and is not intended to be comprehensive, it is designed to assist in gaining an understanding of the relevant provisions of the legislation, the ROC and its work. The ROC is not able to provide legal or accounting advice. For further information please see the materials on our website www.roc.gov.au or contact us at regorgs@roc.gov.au